RE: MuniCap Projection No. 26 Final

Richmond City Council,

This memo serves to offer an explanation behind the replacement of MuniCap Projection 25-A that was posted on the City's Navy Hill website on October 4, 2019 with the final version, Projection 26, attached, dated October 10, 2019.

To begin, we will list the steps taken each time a set of revenues projections are provided.

1. MuniCap receives instructions from the development team to adjust their revenue projections. These iterations occur for various reasons, such as adjustments to:
 - a. The density within the core Navy Hill project, which is market-driven;
 - b. The project schedule which affects when revenues become available;
 - c. Key bond market assumptions, such as interest rates.
2. MuniCap prepares a new set of projections and submits to the development team.
3. The development team reviews internally, seeks further iterations if necessary.
4. The projections are sent to the bond underwriters at Citigroup and JP Morgan Chase to create a new debt model for a new bond issuance.
5. This bond model is sent back to MuniCap for them to incorporate in the correlating set of revenue projections.
6. Once all of these steps are completed, both MuniCap and our bond underwriters' models are in alignment.

The version MuniCap Projection 25-A that was posted to the City's Navy Hill website on October 4, 2019 was the version in step two above, meaning that the bond underwriters had not yet created a new debt model. The bond assumptions in that version, found in Schedules I-IV and XXII-XXIII, use revenues from Projection 25-A but run those revenues against the debt service schedule from Projection 24-A. That explains why the note "Updated Debt Service Information to be Provided by Citi" is at the top of each page in red ink in the aforementioned schedules.

If anyone who is evaluating this projection is working from the version of MuniCap Projection 25-A that was posted to the City's Navy Hill website on October 4, 2019, they are using an incomplete version. To be sure you are referencing the correct set of projections, check for the absence of "Updated Debt Service Information to be Provided by Citi" in red ink at the top of each page in Schedules XXII and XXIII and that the cover sheet reads "Draft Projection No. 26".

Sincerely,

Capital City Partners, LLC
